Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Palynchuk '905 in view of Design Engineers Handbook.

Palynchuk discloses (see Figs. 1-2) a continuous feed injection unit (1), comprising a first hydraulic motor (see Fig. 2, at 13); a second hydraulic motor (13); cooperating continuous well string gripping chains (10) connected to be driven by the first and second hydraulic motors; a hydraulic power supply (see col. 4, lines 52-53) connected to provide pressurized fluid to the first and second hydraulic motors and the continuous chains (10) comprise a first continuous chain and a second continuous chain, the first continuous chain being driven by the first hydraulic motor and the second continuous chain being driven by the second hydraulic motor (see Fig. 2). Palynchuk discloses a control system (see col. 6, lines 16-19) but does not give specific details about the system. The Design Engineers Handbook teaches (see page f-8, circuit f-16) a control system for a hydraulic motors (A, B) having a motor speed control valve (D2) with at least a first and second operating configuration, the first operating configuration providing power fluid to first and second hydraulic motors in parallel and the second operating configuration providing power fluid to first and second hydraulic motors in series and the control system for the hydraulic power supply incorporates a motor direction control valve (D1) through which the power fluid flows, the motor direction control valve been configured to reverse flow of power fluid through the first and second hydraulic motors and each of the motors being connected to respective drain lines (near element label A and element label B) to a hydraulic fluid return to form an open loop hydraulic supply (see paragraph under series/parallel motors). The Design Engineers Handbook teaches the control system can be used to have high speed or high torque in the motors when needed (see lines 1-3). As it would be advantageous to make have more torque or speed with the conditions dictate it, it would be obvious to modify the unit disclosed by Palynchuk to have the control system disclosed by Design Engineers Handbook.

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments with respect to claim 1 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

4. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.

Art Unit: 3672
